A Message from Father Rick

This weekend October 17 and 18 is World Mission Sunday. The Church reminds us that everyone is responsible for bringing the Good News to the whole world. World Mission Sunday is celebrated every year to support missionary works throughout the world. This weekend we do our share by praying for all the missionaries and also to contribute monetary help for the missions. Helping the work of the missions is one way we can give back to God what belongs to God. God commanded his disciples to go throughout the world and proclaim the good news. The same commandment is given to us, and though we may not be able to go far in our evangelization, we help those who have been called to go to foreign and dangerous lands to spread the Christian faith. Thank you for your enthusiasm to support and help the missions. In particular this Sunday we are asked to contribute to the Propagation of Faith and to the Pontifical Mission Societies. These two entities of the Catholic Church are responsible for the spread of Christian faith and bring new members to the Church. Lastly, let us continue to pray for more vocations to priesthood, Religious life and lay missionaries.
